

Trail Reroute for Map 04, Edition 7.4 (2017APR15)

Explanation

Thanks to generous land owners and the work of volunteer Avon Trail members, this reroute removes some of the trail from roads and adds trail to off-road, woodlots between Roads 107 and 106. For an overall comparison please refer to Map 04 in Edition 7.0 (current edition). The change in distance for this reroute is an increase of about 900 m (0.9 km).

Revised Trail Description for Map 04, Edition 7.0

km 59.6 – Perth Line 43 (43.424843, -80.833007)

km 60.9 – Perth Road 107 (43.432439, -80.838365)

At the iron farm gate, the trail turns right (E) into a wooded area and follows a bush trail in a north-east direction for about 100 m before bending slightly right to head in a south-east direction through a mature hardwood forest, coming close to cropped land on the right but not entering the field. It then bends back to a more easterly direction following this well-established path, passing an abandoned shack on the right, another cleared area on the right (a working gravel pit) where 'No Trespassing' signs are posted. The trail travels along an old snowmobile trail, passes forks in the trail but continues in an easterly direction. About half way through the forest, the trail turns sharp left to cropped land and follows in an easterly direction along the edge of a field before re-entering the woodlot. Once back in the woodlot, the trail continues east up and down a couple of hills, passing abandoned maple sugar equipment, a deep excavated hole and eventually emerges at the south end of cropped land, with Road 106 in sight. The trail follows the south edge of the field and emerges on Road 106 (km 63.3).

The trail crosses Road 106, turns right (S) along the road, passes over a drainage ditch (Silver Creek) and proceeds for about 50 m. Here (43.434218, -80.813253) the trail turns left (E) leaving the road and enters the woodlot following a farm vehicle trail in a north-east direction as per the description on the back of Map 04, Edition 7.0 of the Avon Trail Guidebook. Note: Since this reroute increases the length of the trail, the next distance reading on Map 04, Edition 7.0 would be km 66.6 at Road 104 (Lisbon Cemetery) and not km 65.7.
